

Divine Impassibility and the Mystery of Human Suffering

A Providence College Theological Symposium

March 30-31, 2007
Providence College, Providence, RI

The symposium will highlight the relationship among divine impassibility, human suffering, and divine providence. How does a doctrine of God's passibility or impassibility affect how we understand his governance of the world, particularly with regard to human suffering? Theologians from a diversity of Christian confessional traditions will discuss these subjects, providing impetus for reflection from a variety of theoretical standpoints.
