

POLICY ON EVALUATION OF TERM FACULTY

Special Lecturers and Adjunct faculty should be evaluated in each semester of their first two years of appointment at Providence College; thereafter, they should be evaluated once each year, unless they are assigned to a course not previously part of their workload at Providence College. Special Lecturers and Adjunct faculty are always to be evaluated in the first semester in which they teach a course that they have not previously taught at Providence College.

January 29, 2001 (up-dated May 1, 2006)